```
how many different cities do the customers belong to?

select *
from `e1.customers`

select distinct city
from `e1.customers`

select count(distinct city)
from `e1.customers`

select *
from `e1.products`
limit 5

how many different products do we have?

select count(*)
from `e1.products`

How many customers are from Mumbai?

select count(*)
from `e1.customers`
where city = "Mumbai"

count the number of different customers that we have

-- calculates the number of rows
select count(*)
from `e1.customers`

-- count(column) counts the number of non-null values in that column

select count(CustomerID)
from `e1.customers`

How many different supplier states exist?

select *
from `e1.suppliers`
limit 5
```

```sql
select distinct state
from `e1.suppliers`

select count(distinct state)
from `e1.suppliers`

Total Sales Value
What is the total value represented by all order-item records?

select *
from `e1.order_items`
limit 5

select sum(Total)
from `e1.order_items`

How many individual product units were sold across all order-item records?
select *
from `e1.order_items`
limit 5

select sum(Quantity)
from `e1.order_items`

Total quantity sold where order items have a quantity greater than 1:

select sum(quantity)
from `e1.order_items`
where quantity > 1
```