```
Display the payment methods with the highest total payment amount at the top?

select *
from `e1.payments`
limit 5

select
  Method,
  sum(Amount) as total_payment
from `e1.payments`
group by Method
order by total_payment desc

Sort customers by city alphabetically, and within each city sort customers by age from oldest to youngest.

select *
from `e1.customers`
limit 5

select *
from `e1.customers`
order by City asc, age desc

Display the supplierIDs with Highest number of products first.
```

```
If tied, highest average selling price first.

select *
from `e1.products`
limit 5

select SupplierID,
  count(*) as no_of_products,
  avg(SellingPrice) as avg_sp
from `e1.products`
group by SupplierID
order by no_of_products desc, avg_sp desc

Sort products by category first, and within each category sort by selling price from highest to lowest.

select
  ProductID,
  CategoryID,
  SellingPrice
from `e1.products`
order by CategoryID, SellingPrice desc
```

```
1. Take products
        ↓
2. Keep MRP > 1000
        ↓
3. Create supplier groups
        ↓
4. Count products
        ↓
5. Keep suppliers with > 2
        ↓
6. Sort highest count first
        ↓
7. Show top 5
```

```sql
select SupplierID,
  count(*) as prd_cnt
from `e1.products`
where MRP > 1000
group by SupplierID
having prd_cnt > 2
order by prd_cnt desc
limit 5
```

Give me individual products whose MRP is greater than ₹20,000.

```sql
select *
from `e1.products`
where MRP > 20000
```

```
Which suppliers have more than 3 products?

select
SupplierID,
count(*) as product_cnt
from `e1.products`
group by SupplierID
having product_cnt > 3

Which customers have placed more than 5 orders?

select *
from `e1.orders`
limit 5

select
  count(*) as no_of_orders
from `e1.orders`
group by CustomerID
having no_of_orders > 5

Suppliers with 2 or Fewer Products
```

```sql
select *
from `e1.products`
limit 5

select SupplierID,
  count(*) as prd_cnt
from `e1.products`
group by SupplierID
having prd_cnt <=5

Products with Sales Above ₹50,000

select
  ProductID,
  sum(total) as total_sales
from `e1.order_items`
group by ProductID
having total_sales > 50000
```